

Read 	Do 	Find
Read articles in art publications and make notes. There are lots of old art and design magazines in the department. Tell the class or teachers what you have read.	Do a series of quick sketches of a person or animal without expecting them to keep still. Adapt and work over your drawing if they move.	Based on the novel you have read linked to an artist, research the work of that artist, e.g. Picasso's Geurnica, Vermeer's Girl with Pearl Earring, Babara Hepworth's sculptures.
Read a novel which is linked to an artist and write a review. eg Geurnica, Girl with Pearl Earring, Notes from an Exhibition	Do 15 minutes of drawing from life every day. You can follow a theme or do random objects. Your drawings can be quite small.	Watch an episode of Fake or Fortune. Find out about the different forensic methods used in the research and restoration of a piece of artwork.
Choose a current exhibition. Read reviews and information about it in newspapers and the gallery website. Research the artist/s. Visit the exhibition and write your own review in the same style as what you have read.	Follow the courses for art and design on the Oak National Academy.	Visit the following gallery websites and take part in an event, workshop or talk. https://www.ftmlondon.org/what-s-on/workshops/ https://www.tate.org.uk/whatson https://www.npg.org.uk https://www.nationalgallery.org
Read about the principles of composition. Make notes and responses to show your understanding. Refer to the Eye Witness book on composition. Other themes could be colour theory or perspective.	Create a small sketchbook of 'samples' of experiments with different media and techniques. Each page should be like a piece of abstract art which explores texture, tone, special effects. Some of these might explore mixed media or other techniques.	Look at the information on the ARTiculation Prize. Watch some of the entrants' speeches and create your own presentation. You could present this to the class or a wider audience and consider entering the competition. https://www.articulation.org.uk/
