

'Imposter Syndrome'

Amidst the laudation, the exaggerated hoorah's
Lies a meagre slave
Choking on their faith
And if it disappoints,
Will it be cast aside and trampled over?
As oceans of admiration drown its confidence,
It wonders
Will their anchors of hope wash away?
"Alas!" Cried the master
"What good shall doubt bring?"
Greatness is written in your voyage
But will you stand on the fleeting ship?
Or will you remain as the reflection underneath?
Mourning the potential of what you could have been.
